History and international opening

For more than 50 years GLP has been committed to offering its strategic advice on the structured protection and valorization of intellectual property, supporting Clients in the examination, identification, choice and protection of the different innovative expressions that can be achieved in filing, prosecuting and defending patents, trademarks and models. GLP is one of the most important firms in Italy and among the few in the sector to be recognized as a top-player at European and international level. Quality of service, punctual competence and strategic concreteness distinguish GLP's work, which is also recognized in the competitive Asian market as one of the first European professional realities.

The dedication of the group, the results and awards achieved, the quality of services and the ability to accomplish winning goals for Clients by applying an innovative approach to problems, sometimes unusual for the industry, are, and continue to be, the main reason for the growth of the group that now has offices in Udine, Milan, Bologna, Perugia, San Marino and Zurich where - thanks to their skills - various professionals support Clients from all technology sectors, many of which are real drivers among the international players in the market.
